Adobe Photoshop 2020 (version 21) [Updated-2022]

1. Open an image from your hard drive. You can save and upload any image to your computer, but you'll have to use a shareable file format like JPEG or TIFF. The book's projects use a variety of images, but you'll need an original file to create your own images. 2. *In the Layers panel, right-click the Background layer and choose Duplicate Layer. The Background layer now appears in the Layers panel with a grayed-out name (circled). You'll duplicate the Background layer for each composite image you create. You can then edit the Background layer's appearance, as described in the box on Duplicating Layers. 3.

Click the New Layer icon (a plus sign) on the Layers panel. A new, blank layer appears in the Layers panel. 4. Click the New Layer icon (a plus sign) on the Layers panel, then click the New Layer icon in the Layers panel again to set the new layer's position, type, and scale.

Photoshop's new layer tool will not place the new layer in the exact position as the Background layer.

5. Call the new layer "Foreground," click the Color panel , and click the Foreground color swatch to select the color. You can select any color you like. If you create a color chart using the colors in this book, it will help you match those colors in future projects. You can also use a color that's close to the color of the image you're trying to create. In the case of this exercise, select a color close to the image's light color so you won't get muddy highlights when you add the text and background. The next step is to select the text. Since you used the settings shown in Figure 10-5, which doubles the current layer's size, you'll use the font size control in the Character panel to make the text larger. 6. From the Font pop-up menu, choose Garamond Italic. The font appears centered in the new layer. (You can set the font further from the text by clicking the Position box, which has a dotted arrow, on the right side of the panel and dragging the label box in the image in the other direction.) 7

2 Kings 6:8 When the king of Judah heard the words of the man of God which he had sent to Bethel to him, he put his hands on his face and was abashed, because he was saying, "How huge are your works! — the word of the LORD is too good for me!" By "The word of the LORD" you can already guess that this verse is a bit out of context. In fact, all of this was about Benjamin reaching out to Elisha and asking him to get his son back. Imagine

Elisha looking for the boy on his own. The king of Judah has some inkling that Elisha is a mighty prophet and calls on him to lend his assistance to Benjamin. He says some very diplomatic things. Here's how they are worded by Smart: "You do not know what this is that you are asking.... This kind of man the LORD will answer with good things, for the benefit of his people." Once again, it is the king of Judah who makes the concession that Elisha is a mighty prophet. He then restates the reason why Elisha is so famous. His people think so highly of him. The king of Judah says that the word of the Lord is very good, but that he is no prophet. He is no divine messenger. All he has to say is that the king of Israel and Benjamin are "brothers." Why does he give in? I think he is at least partially trying to keep from angering the prophet. He acknowledges that Elisha is a powerful man who is credited as a prophet. But Elisha seems to be having a personal intervention on the king's behalf. He reminds him of his reputation as a prophet, and then references the past when Elisha healed the king's son. You know how strongly the author of Kings favors Elisha, so it's probably safe to say that this king is hard pressed to believe Elisha's claim. So the king of Judah is angry and he's being a little non-committal. Elisha can imagine what is going through the king's mind. "How can I help you when I'm not a prophet? Is there something I can say or do that will help you out?" It looks like he's grasping for something. He begins to repeat to the king what Elisha said. "When the son of a prophet says, '

Q: Fatal error with tkinter TextBox
I am trying to make a GUI calculator in Python 3.3 using tkinter. My first window has 4 entry boxes, and a submit button. I can put these in, and even reset, however if I try to type something in, it says "Fatal error, unable to open display". Here is a snippet of the code I'm using: tk = Tk() tk.title('Calculator')

tk.geometry('+300+200') tk.resizable(0,0)
tk.config(menu=menu) cass = Entry(tk, width=20)
tk.grid(column=0, row=0,
sticky=E) tk.grid(column=1,
row=0, sticky=W)
tk.grid(column=2, row=0,
sticky=E) tk.grid(column=3,
row=0, sticky=W)
tk.grid(column=4, row=0,
sticky=W) tk.grid(column=5,
row=0, sticky=W)

cass.grid(column=0, row=1,
