Start10 has been tested to be compatible with the Windows 10 Insider Preview version 1607. The most current version of Start10 is 8.10 Start10 was last updated on 01/18/2016 48 reviews for Start10 John I'm still on Windows 8 7/20/2016 Verified Purchase ★★★★★ No complaints about the program. Tried to add multiple apps to the start menu and failed. For example I tried to add 2 Office 2013 apps to the start menu and after trying to log into one of the two I received an error message. When I had the start menu open in the other session it tried to uninstall one of the two and I could not reinstall it. After that the second office 2013 had a "loading" symbol. And both remained in the "migrate list" after it had been opened. Tiger Not sure what I'm doing 7/5/2016 Verified Purchase ★★★★★ I have used Windows 10 since it was released in April and thought this was it. I have also used Windows 7. I thought by now I would be familiar with these new OS's and not need to be taught again. I haven't used Start 10 because I was told to watch a video on the website but after a few minutes of watching I gave up. It shows you a picture of the Start screen on your computer and then you click on one of the program icons that is displayed to bring up a list of all the programs. Then you click on the one you want to use. There are no buttons or icons to actually use the program. I am sure I can use Windows 7 better than this. At least I know how to use it. What's New In?

Windows 10's Start Menu can resemble the one in Windows 7. Due to Start10, you get the possibility to make the Start Menu on your Windows 10 computer resemble the one included in Windows 7. This means that it comes with a Search box for looking up files, folders or programs, while also including multiple power options (sign out, lock, restart, shutdown or hibernate). Change the theme and colors of the Start Menu If you have some time to spare, you can experiment with the many customization options of Start10 until you are pleased with the outcome. For example, you can switch to a different Start Menu style or theme, as well as choose a custom PNG or BMP image for the Start button. The transparency and the texture colors can be altered as well, with only a few mouse clicks. Once you have selected a new configuration, you can simply open the Start Menu and view its changed looks in real-time, without needing to restart the PC. Customize the icons and shortcuts shown in the Start Menu Due to Start10, you can also personalize the links displayed in your Start Menu, even if you are not a computer expert. You can select the folders that should be accessible in the right-hand side, as well as define their opening behavior. The newly installed apps can be highlighted in the Start Menu, to make them more noticeable, and the number of large icons can be user-defined. All in all, Start10 can come in handy to all those who liked the Start Menu in Windows 7, and are looking for its familiar feel while benefiting from the functions of Windows 10.
