Introduction to SEO (Search Engine Optimization) Having a website is one of the greatest inventions that mankind has ever come up with. A website is nothing, but a collection of files on a server that sits somewhere in the network. Any website that contains keywords can be categorized as a website. But the problem is, not all websites are useful. For example, a lot of websites are being created by only those people who want to make money on the Internet. These websites are so confusing, and these websites follow SEO techniques that are bad. There are lot 09e8f5149f
