What's New in the?

World Clock Screen Saver is a good-looking screen saver that depicts the current time of all the countries in the world and an active news ticker in the bottom of the screen. However, its magnificence can be noticed only when it is viewed on a high-definition LCD display with a large screen size. If you have a normal LCD monitor with a small screen size, this screen saver will not look great. It includes detailed information about the time in different parts of the world such as the Pacific and the Atlantic Ocean, and Middle East. But the best part about this screen saver is that it also includes a built-in UFO (unidentified flying objects) tracker. You can configure this screen saver to include as many or as few UFOs as you like. World Clock Screen Saver Details: World Clock Screen Saver is based on the Java Saved Object SDK. World Clock Screen Saver includes more than 4,800 years of history in the form of clocks. If you have a large LCD display screen, you will enjoy this desktop screen saver. In addition to the clocks, this screen saver also includes a news ticker in the bottom of the screen. It includes detailed information about the time in different parts of the world such as the Pacific and the Atlantic Ocean, and Middle East. In fact, you can put a picture of any country on the world map, and this screen saver will show you the real-time time of that country. The best feature of this screen saver is the built-in UFO tracker, which will be active automatically while you are watching it. It will show you a list of unidentified flying objects around the world. You can click on any one of the UFOs to see more information about it. You can turn on the UFO tracker option through the screen saver settings.
