Designed by - HRUSLK A couple of days ago there's a new quest added to the Nanaya Outskirts. If you haven't tried out it yet, I highly recommend doing so because it's pretty fun, scary and challenging. I am sure most of you are already aware about this quest because you know how it sounds like. "Black Bushin Super Skeleton will be activated in presence of a 'Nanaya Outskirts'-worldmap point. Here you need to find this 'Nanaya Outskirts'-worldmap point and follow the given quest line to bring it down to complete the quest. As you may have guessed, it shouldn't take too long of a time to kill the quest. Just pass through the site, click on the map point and... that's it. There are two other points that you may want to look out for during your exploration while you're trying to find it (beware of the heat!). The first one is by the abandoned temple from End of Sasaya's Route. If you're already familiar with these occult movements, you may see this little reference already and some of you may already be aware of the little 'demons' that are causing all of this trouble. This is just some sort of ritual or small gathering of some kind. There were some other dead bodies like those that are seen in the Image below. Could they be attacked by something? Surely it can't be a 'black bushin' because it causes so much damage. Next up is The Black Snake, obviously a reference to the mythical figure the black snake. Of course, it should be the 'terminal' enemy. But which black snake? 'Is it a Big Bad Taikomori Black Snake or A humanoid one that is very
